IRON RESILIENCE TELEGRAM MONEY MAKING GUIDE BY IRON DISCIPLINE

1. How Telegram Stars actually works (plain English)

People pay Telegram
Telegram converts their money into Stars

They spend Stars on your channel/subscription

Telegram takes a cut

You get the rest as earnings you can cash out

So yes:

They pay in Stars → Telegram takes a slice → you get the remainder
You don't control the exact percentage perfectly, but think 70–80% to you, 20–30% to Telegram. That's the rent for using their platform and audience.

2. Your pricing (simplified)

Offer a yearly option that's cheaper than paying monthly, a monthly option that's affordable, a discounted trial rate or very basic free version (this is actually what you show outside of Telegram), and different packages.

$12/month
$70/year (≈ $5.83/month — strong discount, smart move)

3. Predicted monthly income (realistic ranges)

This is based entirely upon subscriber count. Paid ones.

Low traction (early stage)

20 monthly subs @ $12 = $240
5 yearly subs averaged monthly = $29
Gross: $269

After Telegram cut (25%): $200/month
This is "fuck you" money to the system by building You Inc.

4. Coaching upsells (the wild card)

Private coaching is where this explodes:

Even 5 people at $100/month = $500
10 people = $1,000

Paid via negotiation, favors, or work-for-access?

That's venture capitalism. Very old-school. Very effective.

And crucially:
coaching is not capped by Telegram Stars if handled off-platform.

5. Build You Inc.

Basically everybody has a sob story everybody has experience everybody has talents monetize them all online and the business is You and you have multiple sources of income active and passive and residual and private coaching is where the money is at and subscriptions.

6. Does the well dry up?

Eventually but...

What you're actually selling (important)
You're not selling content.

You're selling:

Curated access
Signal > noise
Direction
Accountability
Identity alignment

That's why repetition doesn't kill this model.

Your real money will come from books, audiobooks, courses, coaching, investments you make into real estate, gold, giving people loans with massive interests, crypto, cryptoscams, cam girls, gray market supplements and so forth.

Heavy luxury products.

Light consumable products.

Something very expensive and very addictive but very legal/regulated like cigarettes you sell but you also sell the sure like vape products both are run by the tobacco industry. Likewise with the health and fitness industry. They sell the cure for wellness.

The wolf among the sheep knows...

7. Brutally honest take

This is not passive income

This is leverage income

Telegram is your landlord

Stars are the toll booth

Coaching is your real profit engine
Your current setup is lean, legal, scalable, and flexible. No ads, no sponsors, no algorithms to appease — just traffic → conversion → retention.

That’s how things used to be done. And how they still work when stripped of nonsense.
